THE STORY OF OLIVE GARDEN

When You're Here, You're Family

The first Olive Garden opened its doors on December 13, 1982 on Orlando's International Drive by parent company, General Mills and it was an instant hit with guests. The recipe for Olive Garden's success included generous offerings like Never-Ending Salad and Breadsticks, a generous helping of attentive service combined with streamlined operations and strategic business planning.

The immediate success of Olive Garden propelled the brand to 145 restaurants by 1989, making it the fastest growing restaurant chain by the end of the decade. The 1990s saw continual growth during Olive Garden's migration from General Mills to Darden while more than tripling our number of locations in North America. With more than 1,000 restaurants globally, Olive Garden is the largest full-service Italian restaurant chain in the world.
